President Worley Smith, presided over the meeting, with Mrs. W. W. Ball, executive director, and Ernest Lawrence, camping chairman, leading the discussions.

The swim program for all Blue Birds and Camp Fire girls, which begins July 8, will be held at the Community Center, with classes each morning, Monday through Friday, for two weeks. Charles Pat Dowell, and Dickie Price will be in charge of the classes. Girls who have not made application, are urged to fill out the coupon which appears each day in the Daily Courier-Gazette. Chairman Lawrence announced that Day Camp, set for the week of August 5, will be held on the Rainwater farm in the Woodlawn Community, three miles Northeast of McKinney. The chosen site is in a neatly kept pasture, with many shade trees, and was described as an ideal campsite.

Mrs. Ball stated that this year's day camp will begin with a sing-song and flag-raising ceremony, each day. The camp program will also include songs, games, hikes, cook-outs and other outdoor recreation, with some handcrafts. Archery will be featured for the Camp Fire girls.

Woman Says Psalm Waiting For Rescue

ALPINE, Tex. (UP). — Mrs. Clifford White described today how she filed her nails with stones and kept a calendar by adding pebbles to a row while she was lost for six days in the parched wilds of Big Bend National Park.

Mrs. White, of Houstan, was spotted from the air Monday by a search plane pilot and rescued by a ground party. Her first question was about her husband, from whom she had become separated in the scorching rugged country.

"Tell me, yes or no. Is he dead?"

She was told that her husband has been found along a trail apparently dead from heat prostration. He had been trying to reach help after their air conditioned car became stuck in sand.

Mrs. White said she receited the 23rd Psalm while waiting to be rescued because "it sounds cool."

She was spotted near a cave-like mountain ledge where she had found a trickle of water.

Completely rational when found, Mrs. White, 46, was dismissed from the Alpine Hospital late Monday after an examination. Her face was covered with blisters and she had sores around her mouth from the thornes of prickly pears on which she said she subsisted along with "some other things I don't care to remember."

Mrs. White said when their car became stuck she started for help because she was stronger than her husband, who suffered from ulcers. She left the car about 4 p. m. last Tuesday and her husband apparently stayed until the next day.

His body was found 22 miles from the station wagon.

Mrs. White, who knows how to take care of herself in the wilderness, said when she became lost she decided to stay in one place and wait for rescuers.

She said Monday was the first day she had seen or heard any sign of searchers who had been scouring every section of the park for days.

Defense Chief Peterson Calls For Nationwide Warning System

★ ★ ★

WASHINGTON (UP)—Former Civil Defense Chief Val Peterson called today for a nationwide system of house-installed warning devices to prevent "needlss" deaths from hurricanes and other natural disasters.

Peterson said the Civil Defense Administration already is testing such a device and that President Eisenhower is interested in its development and use.

Peterson called on Eisenhower to report on damage and casualties caused by Hurricane Audrey in Louisiana and Texas.

Peterson told reporters at the White House that "few, if any" of the people killed by the storm needed to die.

He said the weather bureau did a "superb" job of discovering, tracking and predicting the hurricane, which threw a devastating nine-foot tidal wave against Cameron, La. The death toll is expected to hit 500 by the time widely scattered bodies are recovered.

◆ ◆ ◆

DID SUPERB JOB.

Peterson said it is "understandable" that many residents of the area did not respond to weather bureau warnings "because they're a pretty hardy breed of folks."

But he deplored the needless deaths which resulted from the local feeling that, "it can't happen here."

"Nature can and will hit any place and every place," Peterson said. "We simply must get better organized."

◆ ◆ ◆

DOUBLE SOCKET.

He described the warning device as a "little thing" resembling an oversize double socket. He said a signal on power lines triggers a horn or a squawk from the gadget. that, he said, is a notice for residents to turn on their radios immediately for directions and information.

Cmdr. James N. Schrader, Coast Guard search and research officer in New Orleans, told a press conference here Monday the Weather Bureau warned of the hurricane 26 hours in advance and "pinpointed to the hour" its arrival times 14 hours before it hit.

"Most people had plenty of time to find a safe place," he said. "They simply refused to leave their homes."

Red Cross officials with long experience in rescue work confirmed that refusal of persons to evacuate threatened areas often mutiplies casualties in natural disasters.

◆ ◆ ◆

LEGAL QUESTION.

They said every effort is made to urge people to leave but noted there is a legal question of whether a person can be forced to quit his home.

Schrader said newspapers and radio stations along the Louisiana coast carried the hurricane warnings, trucks were sent along the beaches urging people to get to high ground and a helicopter flew over isolated villages dragging a sign reading: "Hurricane Approaching.

Messages were dropped on wooden blocks and Coast Guardsmen knocked on doors with their warning.

PREDICTED HIGH TIDES.

More than 12 hours before Audrey arrived, Schrader said, the Weather bureau predicted 8 to 10 foot tides.

"It's like a man sitting on his front steps with the river rising one rescue expert said. "He scoffs with the river rising one rescue at suggestions to get out, saying, 'Oh it's flooded before and never touched my house." When the water hits his front steps he goes into the living room. When it goes into the house he gets up on the table. When it gets up there he's ready to be taken out. By then it may be too late."

One officer told of a man on a hurricane-threatened island off the Florida coast who telephoned Red Cross headquarters to warn that if a police-escorted rescue bus came past his house again he would let loose with a shotgun.

HURRICANE AUDREY DEATH TOLL SOARS TO NEAR 300

By JAMES M. WLINCHUM
United Press Staff Correspondent

LAKE CHARLES La. (UP). — The hurricane Audrey death toll soared to nearly 300 today and officials planned to bury 40 more unidentified disaster victims in a common grave.

Calcasieu Parish Sheriff Henry Reid said late Monday night 285 bodies have been recovered from the shouthwestern Louisiana area around Cameron, south of Lake Charles on the Gulf of Mexico.

More than 40 unidentified bodies, mostly Negroes, were to be buried in a common grave today. Sixty-six other unidentified victims of the hurricane and tidal wale were buried in two common graves Monday.

◆ ◆ ◆

SEARCH STILL CONTINUES.

Other bodies, identified and claimed by friends or relatives, were being buried in private ceremonies.

The search for bodies still continues. Sheriff Reid said he expects the toll to run to 350. Other death estimates ran as high as Val peterson's 50 which he mentioned in his report to President Eisenhower. Peterson is the President's personal representative in the disaster area.

Sheriff's deputies, civil defense officers, state police and National Guardsmen patrolled the stricken area throughout the night to prevent looting.

DEAD CATLE POSE PROBLEM

As some searchers scoured the area for more bodies, others had the grim job of burying or burning thousands of bloating and rotting cattle drowned by the 24-foot tidal wave.

The decayed cattle flesh polluted water and provided breeding places for disease, it was said.

It must be destroyed before any number of inhabitants can return to their homes in the area.

Many of the search parties were armed against swarms of poisonous cottonmouth moccasins washed up from the marshes.

MOMENT OF REST — Dr. Cecil W. Clark, only physician in hurricane-stricken Cameron, La., takes a moment of rest after working hour upon hour setting bones and mending bodies of the survivors of Hurricane Audrey. Civil Defense officials have announced that the number of known dead from the hurricane which ravaged the Louisiana coast is 246 and is expected to rise to 350. Other estimates sets death total in excess of 400. (NEA Telephoto)

SUMMER SNACKS FOR TEENAGERS . . .

Do hungry teenagers raid the refrigerator and keep the cupboard bare? If so, extension foods and nutrition specialists suggest that you keep plenty of milk and dairy products on hand.

These foods are favorites for teenagers . . . What's more important, dairy products are especially rich sources of the proetin, minerals and vitamins needed, by boys and girls during these years when they're growing up so fast.

A French tossed cheese sandwich hits the spot as a late evening snack. Simply put a slice of American cheese between two slices of plain or whole wheat bread, dip entire sandwich into a mixture of beaten eggs, milk, salt and pepper, and brown in butter in skillet. With a glass of good cold milk, this would make a perfect ending to an evening of fun and activity.

For something sweet, try this Orange Fluff. Put ½ pint vanilla ice cream into a large bowl and let soften a little. Add to the ice cream 1 can frozen concentrated orange juice and 2 cups cold water. Beat with rotary egg beater or electric mixer until fluffy. Pour at once into tall, cold glasses and top with the remaining ½ pint of ice cream. For party refreshments, add a half slice of orange and sprig of mint. Makes six servings.

Thick milkshakes can be quickly made with your electric mixer or a rotary egg beater. Just put slightly softened ice cream, milk and flavoring into a mixing bowl and beat until fluffy.

FOR PAUSE THAT REFRESHES—DRINK MILK.

Do you reach for something cold to drink on these hot summer afternoons? Frosty, cold milk is your best choice, both flavor-wise and nutrition-wise, according to Maeona Cox, extension food and nutrition specialist. Be sure it's cold, but don't dilute it with ice cubes. Use cold glasses.

A glass of milk is refreshing anytime during the day. It serves as a quick pick-up for young or old.

Milk is not fattening. An 8-ounce glass of whole milk has only 166-calories. This is just a small percentage of the 2,300 needed daily by the average woman. Skim milk has even fewer calories.

It's high in other food values, so that each calorie is packed with nutrition. An 8-ounce glass of milk provides one-third the calcium you need daily. Calcium is the mineral that keeps bones hard— and it helps muscles work better, too. More than one-fourth of the riboflavin (that's vitamin B-2) needed each day is in that glass of milk, plus high quality protein, minerals and vitamins in good quality.

Start now to form the milk-drinking habit . . . Plain or dressed up with ice cream, fresh crushed fruit or syrup, milk offers lots of food value.

REBUILD HAY STOCKS ADVISES SPECIALIST.

Hay is an essential part of most successful and well-rounded forage programs, says E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist. Even when pasture is provided, hay will serve as a valuable supplement, for when cows are grazing plants that are 80 to 85 per cent moisture they do not get enough dry matter to satisfy their body requirements.

Planning will pay off in hay production. The producer must first consider the kind and amount of hay production. The producer must first consider the kind and amount of hay that woud best feed his livestock. Then he must consider his facilities. If he does not have the proper haying equipment, storage facilities and land for hay production, he may find that buying the hay would be cheaper than producing it.

Proper seedbed preparation is necessary when hay crops are to be planted. The fertility requirements depends on the condition of the soil and the kind of hay being produced.

Cutting the hay in the proper stage is also important for it has a direct effect on hay quality, says the specialist. Sorghums should be cut in the hard dough stage or later; Alfalfa is one-tenth to one-fourth bloom stage; Alzeclover and Serecia Lespedeza when 12 to 15 inches high; Costal Bermuda when 16 to 18 inches high, coupeas when the first pods turn yellow; soybeans when the pods and seeds are fully formed and vetch when the first seeds are half formed. In general, the younger the crop at time of cutting, the higher the quality and the lower the yield. The crop should be cut at the time to give the best combination of yield and quality.

Proper curing of hay is very important, for this is one of the more critical shtages in hay production. Curing should be completed as qpickly as possible to prevent loss of quality for sunlight, rain and dew. Overcuring results in losses of leaves, nutrients, dry matter and color while undercured hay is high in moisure and often heats, molds and spoils. Legumes should be wilted and windrowed for curing to prevent loss of leaves but this is not necessary for grases. Hay may be chopped and stored loose to save on labor and baling and storage.

Having plenty of good quality hay takes planning and work, but it is like having money in the bank adds Trew.

Mrs. Emily Brown of Wolfe City is spending a few days in McKinney with her sister, Mrs. B. F. Williams and brother, W. L. McHone and families. She will also visit relatives at Westminster before returning home.

Farmers Need Mid-Morning-Afternoon "Break" From Work

A "break" in morning and afternoon hours is as important to farmers as it is to city workers, according to the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council. In fact, these "breaks" in work routine can prove especially important, for they reduce the possibility of accidental deaths and injuries as well as improving work efficiency.

The farmer who just can't spare the 10 or 15 minutes required to get off the tractor, walk around or maybe have a snack or something to drink, should be reminded that recent accident studies indicate that the highest percentage of farm work accidents occur during the late morning and mid-afternoon hours.

Farm wives can serve as break reminders to their husbands by packing a mid-morning and mid-afternoon snack and taking it to the field.

This break can also provide mothers an excellent opportunity to take children to the field to watch wather operate the dangerous machines that theyl sometimes find such fascinating "playpretties." This may satisfy the child's curiosity and make a much anticipated event in the daily life of the youngsters.

So, why not follow the advice of the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council and take time out for a mid-morning and mid-afternoon break? It can pay off in safety, pleasure and efficiency.

Collin Farmers Vote In Favor Of Wheat Proposal

North Texas farmers recently approved a price cut for their 1958 wheat, but at the same time set a floor on how far those prices would fall.

Like other wheat-growing areas of the nation, producers gave a wide majority to continue acreage controls and marketing quotas for the 1958 crop. The referendum also set the price support level for the 1958 harvest.

In Collin County growers voted 119 to 30 in favor of the proposal.

Since the referendum was approved by more than two-thirds of those voting, the price support level on the 1958 crop will be 75 per cent of parity. Supports for this year are near 90 per cent of parity. Therefore, prices for 1958 wheat are expected to be near the $1.78 per bushel figure, down 22 cents below prices of this year and last.

NEWS FROM THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS —of— THE COLLIN CO. SOIL CONSERVATION DIST.

BURNING OF STRAW HARMFUL TO SOIL

Buring straw after the grain harvest was decreased considerably in this area since farmers have learned the long time benefits of stubble and stubble mulch tillage.

Soil Conservation Service technicians assisting the Collin Soil Conservation District have long advocated incorporating straw into the surface soil rather than burn it.

The burning of straw destroys organic matter, food for bacteria, cover and results in poorer physical condition of the soil.

Straw decomposes more slowly than a lush crop and furnishes a more lasting type of organic type. Soils farmed to small grains generally have a higher organic matter content than soils in row crop. But it is still considerably less than when nature did the farming. Nature did its best to put a cover on every acre of land and keep it there.

Most of that cover was returned to the soil an various stages of organic matter, according to Arthur Hanson, Area Soil Scientist, of Denton. Much of the nitrogen in our soil is carried by organic matter. This is also true of potash, phosphorus and sulphur. He cited figures indicating that one ton of oat straw contains about 10 pounds each of nitrogen and potash. The amounts of phosphorous varied with plants and soils.

The water and plant food holding capacity of soils are increased by additional organic matter accorning to Hanson. So is granulation in heavy soils which increase water and air intake.

Earth worms need organic matter for food as they decompose the soil. These holes, or borrows, improve aeriation and drainage. This is especially true in heavy soil. Other small beneficial animal life uses organic matter as a source of food, also.

According to Hanson, straw furnishes food in the form of carbon for the bacteria. Some of the nitrogen that is carried by the organic-matter is used by the bacteria for building their bodies. Hanson stated the bacteria also used the Nitrogen to build complicated compounds in the soil.

When the soil temperature approaches 100 degrees bacteria ceases to be active. Organic matter helps the high temperatures down.

When straw is burned the soil losens some physical conditioning benefits, according to Hanson. The decomposed straw binds sandy soil and loosens heavy clays.

When the change from threash machines to combines was made, a change was later noticed in the soil's physical condition. As the straw was returned to the soil by the combine, it improved the soil physical condition over a period of years. Many farmers said they noticed that less power was needed to plow as compared to plowing when the straw was threshed into stacks.

Some grain farmers have said they got higher yields following the burning of straw. This temporary increase was caused by extra nitrogen. Since there was no straw to decompose the bacteria had little work to do and did not use much nitrogen. This nitrogen was then available to the succeeding crop.

Hanson stated experiments have shown that this is a temporary increase. After several years of stubble burning the organic matter decreases to the point where the soil shows physical damage. It is puddled and run together, and water and air move slowly into the subsoil. This soil will need good soil management for several years to improve th physical condition.

Clinton Harbers, master farmer from West Point, Fayette County, has said it is much harder to restore good phsyical condition in the soil than it is to maintain it.

When small grain fields are plowed and shortly after planted to another crop, this crop suffers from a lack of nitrogen. This is caused by the bacteria working hard to decompose the straw. They eat at the first table and use the available nitrogen, according to Hanson. They can be overcome by adding 30 to 60 pounds of nitrogen per acre just before plowing the stubble.

When grain fields are not to be planted until fall, fertilizing should be delayed until planting time.

Experiments have indicated that 20 to 50 pounds of nitrogen are tied up in the decomposition of one ton of straw. This range is due to differences in temperature. Cool weather decreases the amount of nitrogen used while hot weather increases the need for nitrogen.

Less nitrogen is tied up when the straw is stubble mulched or left partially on the surface. This results in less straw being under the surface and less decomposition on taking place in a short time.

A stubble mulch of sraw acts as a partial cover. It helps protect the surface soil from beating and washing rains. Hanson said the rain drops beat and smash the soil granules and small clods into a powdery surface crust. This crust slows the movement of water and air into the soil. This results in increased runoff and erosion in slopes.

The mulch also decreases evaporation and helps lower the soil temperature during the hot summer months.

Supreme Court Rules On Tatum Will Case

The Supreme Court at Austin, Wednesday, refused application for Writ of Error, which, in effect, affirms the decision of the Court of Civil Appeals in the Tatum Case.

The case was first tried in McKinney in the Spring of 1955 resulting in a "hung jury." That Fall a re-trail was held in Sherman the results of which were in favor of the plantiff, Mrs. Nettie Edna Womble, of Farmersville.

The case grew out of the will of the late Charlesy Tatum, f Farmersville, whose estate was valued at over $1,000,000.

In January, 1953, a will was probated by Executors of the estate in which half of the estate was equally divided between the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children in Dallas, and Buckner Orphans Home in Dallas. In 1954 Mrs. Womble, introduced a second will, which was claimed to have been written later, leaving all of the estate to her.

The Court of Civil Appeals reversed the holding of the trial court and rendered judgment in favor of the Scottish Rite Hospital and Buckner Orphans Home.

The action of the Supreme Court agfgirms the judgment of the Court of Civil Appeals.

MARRIED IN CHURCH RITES

MRS. JOHN PHILLIP BARBEE JR.

The following article about the marriage of Miss Doris Parker and John Phillip Barbee, Jr., which appeared in a Mobile Ala. publication is of interest in McKinney where the bridegroom has a host of relatives. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mallow of McKinney, his mother being the former Marcella Mallow of this city.

Ashland Place Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding of Mrs. Doris Parker and John Phillip Barbee Jr., on June 8.

The church was decorated with bouquets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and calla lilies interspersed with white candelabra. The Rev. A. M. Sells officiated with Clark Kemper, organist, and Mrs. Donald Patton, soloist, presenting the nuptial music.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Parker was given in marriage by her father. Her gown of white French lace and satin featured a bodice embroidered with seed pearls and white sequins, with a Queen Anne collar. The side panels of the skirt were accented with ruffles of tulle. The bride's finger-tip veil of illusion was attached to a small tiara embroidered with pearls, and she cahrried a bouquet of stepanotis and English ivy arranged around a white orchid.

Miss Cheriee Smith was maid of honor and Mrs. J. C. Parker Jr., matron of honor, with Miss Marfy Ann Barton serving as bridesmaind. They wore ballerina-length dresses of embroidered organdy and carried cascade arrangements of daisies. The attendants wore bandeaux of matching daisies.

The groom was attended by his father, J. P. Barbee, as best man. The groomsmen were Gerry McKean and Clifford Bogerston.

The bride's mother wore a dustry rose lace dress with navy accessories and a white corsage. The groom's mother wore a champagne linen and chiffon dress with matching accessories and a corsage of purple violets.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at the Boland Tea Room. The bride's table was covered with a Madeira cloth over satin and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake embossed with orange blossoms and spun sugar bells.

Mrs. Norman Morris Jr., cousin of the bride, cut and served the cake. Others serving at the reception were Mrs. John Strange, Miss Martha Barton, Miss Nancy Gregory and Mrs. Robert Bennett.

For her wedding trip on the Gulf Coast the bride chose a beige linen suit with matching shoes and bag and she wore a hat made of daisies. The couple will reside in Houston Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Barbee entertained after the r eshearsal at their home.

Girard And Jap Sweetheart Are Married Today

TOKYO (UP).—Army Specialist 3c William S. Girard and his Japanese sweetheart Haru Candy Sueyama were married today with out a ceremony and 40 miles apart.

Candy legally became married to the 21-year-old soldier from Ottwa, Ill., when she registered the match at the Akasaka Ward Office in Tokyo—the only action necessary under Japanese law which the United States recognizes.

Girard, the center of an international dispute, remained at Camp Whittington, 40 miles north of Tokyo, where he is confined pending outcome of a controversy over whether the United States or Japan should try him.

He is accused of accidentally shooting and killing a Japanese woman metal scavenger on a U. S. Army firing range.

Girard and Candy plan a church wedding on Friday, the Japanese's girl 29th birthday. Girard is 21. The ceremony will be at Camp Whittington and because Girard is confined to base a honeymoon is not possible.

NEWS FROM HOLLYWOOD

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UP). — Television pundits are asking why Desi Arnez killed off his weekly "I Love Lucy" show when it was number one in the ratings.

Did Desi hate "Lucy?"

Were sponsors growing restive?

"Neither," says Desi. "We filmed 180 shows in six years, and we felt we could improve the program by making it an hour show."

How could he "improve" the show when it was the top-rated program on video for all six years?

"One reason 'Lucy' stayed at the top is that we kept changing and improving the format as we went along," the handsome Cuban explained. "Besides, I'm not the kind of guy who can stand still. If you're not moving forward, you're sliding backward."

"Lucy" fans must content themselves with five one-hours shows during the 1957-58 season.

"Ethel and Fred Mertz will stay in the story along with little Ricky," Dezi went on. "We'll have guest stars and a 28-piece band. The first show goes on the air in November with Ann Southern, Cesar Romero and Rudy Vallee as guests."

Desi chattered over a humburger in a dinner alcove of his plush office in the motion picture center—his own sprawling studio in the heart of Hollywood where he employs a thousand persons.

More businessman than actor, the graying Arnaz is a giant among TV producers.

"This year we will film 19 shows on the lot," he said expansively. "Eight, possibly ten, will be Desilu productions. When you think that a 39-week series cost about three million dollars, you realize this is big business."

Desi was interrupted by "Lucy" Lucille Ball who brought him a handful of pictures of their two children. He gazed at them fondly, kissed his pretty wife on the cheek and resumed talking business.

"I am sticking with situation comedies. I know, they have been dying like flies, but they will always be around—if they're made well."

According to Desi, the new format for "I Love Lucy" will mean less work for Lucille, but he will be busy as ever playing executive.

"Audiences have been wonderful to us. And if it is possible we will make more than five shows. Anyhow," businessman Desi concluded, "we are going to rerun the half-hour shows on CBS Wednesday nights this fall—so audiences will know we still love 'Lucy.'"

Glamour Leader Says Young Stars Don't Have Any

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UP). — The World's leading example of glamour has decided the new young stars of Hollywood don't have any.

Marlene Dietrich, who pales even Ava Gardner and Rita Hayworth when it comes to true glamour, isn't quite sure what glamour is. She thinks "it has something to do with authority."

But whatever the ingredients is, the new beauties of the screen don't have it, she observed with a shrug.

"There are no glamourous stars today because the people who give glamour to these women are not around—producers such as Irving Thalber, L. B. Mayer," reflected Dietrich.

◆ ◆ ◆

NOW IT'S BOSOMS.

"They took those little girls and did something with them.

"Now," she sighed, "They measure them.

"This bosom business is a national American disease. It has spread everywhere, to England, to Italy. Like Coca-Cola.

"Except for Audrey Hepburn—she's in a class by herself: She's European. It's very reassuring and wonderful that with all these girls who are wired for sound in the front there still is Audrey.

"The real glamour women in the history of movies are very few. There have not been many, just a handful. Today the French actresses probably have glamour, but the stars here just don't."

◆ ◆ ◆

STILL UNEQUALLED.

Mayer and Thalberg created glamour for Jean Harlow and Greta Garbo. Director Josef Von Sternberg was credited with building the fabulous creature that is Dietrich—a slender, blonde, husky-voiced woman now twice a grandmother but unequalled in her class.

These days Marline is working on her most important and most dramatic role in many years, the title role for "Witness for the Prosecution," which independent producer Arthur Hornblow is making from the stage hit.

Between scenes today, Marlene sat on her set, surrounded by admirers such as director Billy Wilder and co-stars Charles Laughton and Tyrone Power. Her skirt was pulled above her knees.

It was a picture of her usual mischievous sultriness, almost of arrogance, such as the gesture that started her to stardom—when as an extra she adjusted her monocle in a crowd scene in a German film.

10,000 Algerians Are Evacuated

ALGIERS, Algeria (UP). — The French American announced today that 10,000 Algerian civilians had been evacuated from "forbidden zones" north of Constantine to allow saturation bombing of the rebel-infested region.

Three tent villages were cleared of their populations during the past few weeks. Most of the natives have been resettled in villages around the perimeter of the forbidden area and families have been kept together.

Jew Loses Office As Lord Mayor Dublin, Ireland

DUBLIN (UP).—Robert Briscoe, first Jew to become lord mayor of Dublin in the city's 1,000 year history, lost the office Monday night to James Carroll the same way he won it a year ago—by the luck of the draw.

Ironically, Briscoe's triumphant tour of the United States indirectly cost him victory in the annual mayoralty elections in the city council.

One member of his Fianna Fail Party abstained from the vote because Briscoe condemned raids on Northern Ireland by the outlawed Irish Republican Army during his visit to America.

As a result, only 42 councillors participated in the voting which ended in a 21-21 deadlock. After 30 tense minutes in the packed chamber, the names of Briscoe and Carroll were written on pieces of paper and dropped into a hat.

Carroll's name was drawn. Briscoe turned over his chain and medallion of office and warmly congratulated his opponent while the chamber burst into applause.

Briscoe, 63, won the office in exactly the same manner on June 29, 1956, after a 19-19 tie with the ten-incumbent Dennis Larkin.

Visiting Hours At CC Hospital Are Changed

Effective July 1, 1957, the following visiting hours will be in effect at the City-County Hospital. The afternoon visiting hours will continue as usual, from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. The evening visiting hours will be from 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

We are operating at capacity and above much of the time and we feel that it is necessary for us to restrict visitation to the above stated hours. The Medical Staff, the Board of Governors and the Administration of the City-County Hospital have gone into this problem thoroughly and they have requested the cooperation of the general public in the observance of these new hours. We ask the full cooperation of the general public in the observance of the visiting hours so that we may afford better patient care to all patients in the City-County Hospital.

The following are the only exceptions to this rule:

1. Immediate family of acutely ill patients, such as, Father or Mother, Brothers, Sisters, etc.

2. The Minister may come at the request of the family at any hour of the day or night.

Mrs. Rebecca Geer of Westminster is reported ill.

DENISON, Texas — A quarter million dollar medical center will be constructed for a group of Denison doctors by the LS&T Construction Company, headed by John Lattimore of Denison and R. W. Strauss of Sherman. It is to be completed by Dec. 1.

Ten Denison physicians signed a ten year lease with the contractors here to insure the construction of the project.

The medical center will house offices at the outset for two surgeons, Doctors Tom Moorman and Stanley L. Clayton; two pediatricians, Drs. Don Freeman and Joseph A. Bilder Jr.; two dentists, Dr. Robert F. Austin and Dr. L. W. C. Tang; two physical therapists, Misses Jeanne Knight and Altha Lea Scott; one radiologist, Dr. Maurice Weisberg; one ophthalmologist, Dr. Reed W. Jones Jr.; one physician, Dr. Wilburn S. Fry and one obstetrician and gynecologist, Dr. Andrew O. Jensen.

In addition, an office suite will be available for an ear, nose and throat specialist. One is currently being sought for the clinic.

A modern pharmacy also is to be included in the medical center, which will be located at the South edge of Denison on the new route of U. S. Highway 75.

John Hall Brown and Jay Lowe Chapman of Sherman are architests on the project.

The building will be a low, modernistic one story structure with each suite having from seven to 14 rooms. It is being built in two wings and there will be a parking area for 150 cars. —Deputy Sheriff Robert Ramsey wife and son, have returned from a delightful vacation spent in Colorado.

Sheriff Floyd Williams took a patient to the State Hospital Terrell Tuesday.

Mrs. Alma Whitmore, who for the past thirteen years has been an employe of St. Joseph's hospital, recently attended the Texas Restaurant Convention held at the Shamrock Hotel in Houston. Mrs. Whitmore is in Maternity Dietary at the hospital. She won a contest for having exceptional of factory powers.

Anthony Quinn makes a play for a nightclub waitress (Maureen Stephenson) in "The Wild Party," United Artists release opening Tuesday at the Ritz Theatre.

Tarry Green and William Hinant find themselves staring at the business end of a revolver. Scene is from "Four Boys and a Gun," United Artists release opening Tuesday at the Ritz Theatre.

Two films packed with emotional dynamite, dealing as they do with the nation's number one topic—juvenile delinquency and the rock and roll crowd, will be shown locally as a twin bill starting Tuesday at the Ritz Theatre. The pictures are "The Wild Party and "Four Boys and a Gun." In the former film the rock-and-roll gang with their criminal behavior take the forefront while in the latter four average guys find themselves compelled to move in the world of crime, culminating in the murder of a policeman.

The principal characters portrayed with chilling realism by Anthony Quinn, Carol Ohmart, Arthur Franz, Jay Robinson, Kathryn Grant and Nehemiah Persoff, represent a segment of youth seeking dangerous excitement and easy money without regard to law or morality. With this particular group the exciting life is equated with violence and progressive jazz.

Their dedication to jazz, is in itself a harmless and enjoyable pastime. But for the characters seeing their escape from so-called normal society in "The Wild Party" their emotional involvement with this frantic music and musicians becomes justification for a footloose, violent way of life.

To make this dream world a reality, Anthony Quinn, a brutish ex-football player trying to live on his past glory, picks up and discards a string of immature adoring teenagers (typified by Miss Grant), who are normal wrecks by the time he's through with them.

Texas Receives Another Month Of Ample Rain

AUSTIN (UP). — Texas received another month of ample rain during June, according to U. S. Weather Bureau climatologist Hoye Dunham.

Dunham said the Beaumont-Port Arthur area reported a total of 11.01 inches of rain in June, 6.23 above normal. The total was shoved upward by Hurricane Audrey.

At Brownsville, a June total of 6.34 inches, 3.05 above normal, was recorded.

Dunham said amounts of from one to three inches above normal for the past month fell in the South Plains from Lubbock to Midland and Odessa, and in the coastal area between Victoria and Brownsville.

Dunham said during the first half of 1957, only El Paso has not received at least normal rainfall.

Senate Group Votes To Restore '58 Defense Funds

WASHINGTON (UP). — The Senate Appropriations Committee voted unanimously today to restore $971,504,000 if the House cut in fiscal 1958 defense funds.

The Senate committee approved a total of $34,534,229,000 for the Army, Navy, Air Force and other defense activities for the fiscal year beginning Monday.

Restoration of nearly one billion dollars still leaves the money bill $1,593,771,000 under the amount asked by President Eisenhower. But he was given the major part of the $1,200,000,000 he said was vital for national defense.

The rest of the House reduction was considered a "bookkeeping" cut. Defense officials did not make a strong fight to get the amount restored.

The Senate committee restoration was divided Army, $151,731-000; Navy, $252,900,000 and Air Force $560,504,000. Of the Air Force share $280,000,000 was earmarked for buying planes.

Woman Hopes Someone Will Like Some Bees

DURAND, Mich. (UP).—Mrs. Victor Endean said today she is "hoping someone who would like some bees" will come and get the 10,000 that are buzzing through the walls of her house.

"They've been there since Sunday," Mrs. Endean said, "and we don't quite know what to do about it. We've contacted everyone who had any suggestions around here, but so far we haven't had any luck."

She said the bees were dislodged from their hive in the backyard when wind blew it over. "Now they've taken up residence in the bedroom walls."

Mrs. Endean, mother of seven, said the suggestions about getting rid of the bees include a plan to fumigate the house with cyanide gas.

"But this doesn't sound so good because some of the gas might remain in the walls and harm the children," she said. "I hope someone who would like some bees would come and get them."

"We will be glad to see them go, whether it's alive or dead," she added.

Alligator Is Found in Sewer

DALLAS (UP). — A dog-catcher hauled an infuriated alligator out of a Dallas sewer Monday night after children complained of a hissing monster in their secret tunnel.

L. W. Schell lowered himself into the sewer and walked two blocks before he came upon the belligerent, four and a half foot alligator. He dropped a noose over it and wrestled the snarling beast back above ground.

Although the sewer had been sealed to prevent children from entering it, they found a spot and had been using it for a "play tunnel."

The play ended abruptly when they found an alligator had taken over the three limb they used for a ladder into the sewer.

Police believed the alligator came up from the flooded Trinity River bottoms into the sewer.

Man Injured In Gun Battle

DALLAS (UP). — A former Mexican national who doesn't speak English was arrested Monday as a suspect in a runnig gun-battle following a tavern break-in in Dallas.

The 22-year-old man was identified by Mrs. Jesse Gonzales as the man who shot her husband after he suprised two men breaking into his tavern.

He chased one of them down the street, firing as he went, but the suspect reached his car, grabbed a gun and shot back, hitting Gonzales in the arm.

He was picked up while working on a Dallas school construction job. He told police in Spanish it was his gun but he didn't do the shooting.

Contest Winner Gets Free Burial

TYLER, Tex. (UP).—A Fourth of July traffic safety contest sponsored by radio station KTBB here offers the winner a free funeral.

KTBB disk jockeys and staff members have volunteered to act as pallbearers.

The station said that since the winners would probably be a safety violator, will play rock'n roll music at the services.
